Suggestions for Fall Planting

Gillett's Fern and Flower Farm

K. E. Gillett, Proprietor

SOUTHWICK, MASSACHUSETTS

Herewith I am submitting suggestions for Fall planting. Most native plants can be successfully moved in the Fall. There is a group of American plants that should preferably be planted in the Autumn because they start making their growth as soon as the frost leaves the ground and to move them when in growth means a set-back for that season.

Some of the best of that group follow.

On all items herein listed five will be sold at the ten rate;
fifty at the hundred rate.
